

Cardiovascular Medicine Fellowship

Application Specifics

The Fellowship in Cardiovascular Medicine participates in the match program run by NRMP. All applications must be submitted through ERAS. The deadline for receiving application materials is August 1st. Please see FAQs for more information.

Frequently Asked Questions

How many first-year fellowship positions does UMass have? 6

Does UMass participate in the National Resident Matching Program (NRMP)? Yes

May I send my application directly to UMass? No. All applications must be submitted through ERAS for consideration.

What are the requirements for consideration?

- ERAS Application
- Completion of an ACGME-certified internal medicine residency prior to starting fellowship
- USMLE transcript (steps 1, 2 and 3)
- Three letters of recommendation, one of which must be from the Program Director of the IM residency
- Personal statement
- Ability to obtain a Massachusetts license to practice medicine

Is there a minimum board score for applicants to be considered? While there is no absolute cutoff for consideration, applicants with low scores are unlikely to be granted interviews unless other aspects of their applications are unusually impressive.

Do you accept applicants who are on H and J visas? Applicants who are currently on H or J visas are welcome to apply. However, we do not initiate the visa application process for those who do not already have a visa.

What is the timeline of application processing and interviews? Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis. Interviews occur in September and October.

For additional questions? Ms. Raechel Strom, Coordinator, Cardiology Fellowship Training Programs, email: raechel.strom@umassmemorial.org. Phone: (508) 856-3064.